

Michael Stern
Training Specialist – EMS Program
National Fire Academy, U.S. Fire Administration

Michael Stern is the Training Specialist responsible for the EMS Program at the National Fire Academy. Since 2008 when the U.S. Fire Administration's reauthorization was updated to include "advanced emergency medical services training," Michael has led the program's development and revision to provide EMS leaders and managers system management and disaster EMS management education and training, as well as USFA's support of the DHS Blue Campaign in an effort to bring awareness to fire and EMS services of the victims we interact with during responses.

Michael joined the National Fire Academy staff from Grand County Colorado, where he was the EMS Deputy Chief and County Emergency Manager, and previously an active duty U.S. Navy Corpsman and volunteer firefighter/EMT/Paramedic in several parts of the country.
